

RETAIL SUPPLIER REGIONAL OFFICES

A regional headquarters is the entity at the top of a regional unit, including all activities of the various business units, that takes full responsibility for overall profitability and success of the regional unit. These headquarters organizations often perform essential activities in-house that are parts of many sectors of the economy. In some cases a regional headquarters is the U.S. presence for foreign companies, but domestic companies also locate regional headquarters in geographic areas away from their corporate headquarters location.
